Social Justice (Samaji N'yaya) On relieving the distress of those in adversity:

So fear Allah as much as you are able and listen and obey and spend [in the way of Allah]; it is better for you. And whoever is protected from the stinginess of his soul - those who will be the successful. [Abu Dhabi Memon Community Fri Sermon for 21-04-2017]

➤ Good to Know, who is qualified to give a character reference: When asked for an opinion about a boy, or a girl or their family regarding matrimony or anything else, please follow this golden rule:

A man bore witness in the presence of `Umar ibn al-Khattaab (RA). So Umar said to him: "I do not know you, and it does not harm you that I do not know you, but bring someone who does know you."

So a man said: 'I know him, O Chief of the Believers.'

Umar said: "What do you know of him?"

The man said: 'Uprightness.'

Umar said: "Is he your closest neighbor; so that you know about his night and his day, and his comings and goings?"

The man said: 'No.'

Umar said: "So have you had (monetary) dealings with him involving dirhams and deenars, which will indicate his piety?"

The man said: 'No.'

Umar said: "Then has he been your companion upon a journey which could indicate to you his good character?"

The man said: 'No.'

Umar said: "Then you do not know him."

Then he said to the man (who bore witness): "Bring me someone who knows you." [Source]

Good Read: Will Marriage Solve My Problems? (By Ubah @ SuhaibWebb.com)

"Here are some reasons that I have come up with on my own:

1. I have noticed that some people view marriage as an escape from their current situations. Perhaps they believe that by getting married, all of their social and familial problems will be solved. Unfortunately, some Muslims may be living under dire conditions at home and might be going through emotional and/or physical abuse, and so for them marriage seems like a way out.
2. Continue reading...

Bottom line: Brothers and sisters, marriage won't solve your problems—Allah (swt) will. [Source]
